

The Best Spas and Retreats for a Relaxing Bachelorette Weekend

If cupping is more your thing than clubbing, we're sharing top spas across the country for an actually relaxing bachelorette weekend.

Let's face it: "Relaxing" and "bachelorette party" rarely go hand in hand. (Just watch the movie Bachelorette.) But in 2024, many brides are rewriting that script and embracing the more tranquil wellness spa bachelorette trend.

Instead of the typical booze-centric bachelorette activities, these brides are opting for beauty and wellness treatments and experiences to de-stress from wedding planning and connect with their friends on a deeper level. Of course, it doesn't have to be all or nothing—a spa day is also a great way to recharge after a girls' night out. (And many of the spas below also happen to offer recovery services like IV drip therapy.)

If cupping is more your thing than clubbing, we're sharing top spas across the country for an actually relaxing bachelorette weekend.

Palm Springs Yacht Club at the Parker Palm Springs

Palm Springs, California

Best for: The glam bride who wants five-star pampering.

The Palm Springs Yacht Club is a massive spa and wellness facility located on the property of the five-star desert chic Parker Palm Springs hotel. Upon arrival, you'll be given a thimble of cucumber-infused vodka along with your bathrobe to kick off your spa festivities. Choose from a wide range of personalized spa treatments, from facials to reflexology to a hot stone massage, or go for the Yachtsman's Voyage ($600 for 2 hours 45 minutes), including a 60-minute massage, 60-minute facial, and 45-minute spa manicure for the full works. Once you're done being pampered, head to Norma's on the hotel property for a bite—the brightly colored open-air terrace restaurant is a great way to take in the serene mountain views.
